BIG CROWD ENJOYS FINE HORSE SHOW MONDAY

Thousands of People Gather Here to See Blue Blooded Stallions on Exhibition at Annual Event

One of the largest crowds ever seen in Stanford on a similar occasion, was on hand Monday to witness the annual Horse Show. Many estimated that there were as many as 3,000 people in town. The weather was ideal and white there were not over 20 stallows on exhibition those which were here were of the very finest blood and here were of the very finest blood and were extravagantly admired by all who

Most of the stallions were on exhibition during the day at Baughman & Walter's stable. All were brought our about one o'clock and the saddlers and roadsters put through their paces on East Main street which was haed for almost a half a mile with spectators who cheered their favorites and enjoyed the show immensely.

To attempt to give an individual description of the merits of each animal on exhibition would occupy too much space here and besides such information will be given by the enterprising owners in the advertising columns o this paper in this or subsequent issues.

In response to the request of many friends Dick Scudder, of McKinney brought in his great young sire, All Peavine from his farm, to town for exhibition. Mr. Scudder did not show All Peavine last season as he did not wish to take any chances with so valu-able an animal, but as the fame of his get has increased each season, so many horsemen wanted to look at the sire of so many Futurity winners, that Mr. Scudder consented to bring him to town on this occasion, and he was the cynosure of all eyes as he was given a moderate workout by his groom, and in

The government stallion Hamilton's Chief, which is in charge of Felix White, was also brought in by that gentleman. He is a fine looking animal and splendidly bred.

Perhaps the largest horse on exhibition was Bosseau, a gray Percheron, which is being stood by R. L. Berry, this side of Hustonville. This is a fine big animal and the Percherons are being sought after more and more each for the breeding of mule mares. W. Williams had on exhibition the black Percheron Sampson, owned by E. G. Lancaster Paper Pays Tribute to State Senator of This District

Under a picture of him, the Lancaster Record, in a recent issue, paid the following well deserved tribute to Senator Charles F. Montgomery, of Liberty: We know of no young man that has arisen so rapidly in public favor as Senator Charles F. Montgomery of Liberty, who represented the counties of Garrard, Lincoln, Boyle, and Casey in the upper house during the General Assembly. While he was not at all times with the majority of his associates in the Senate the position he took that brought him into disagreement. ment, added to his popularity with his constituents. In fact to be popular with the people it was necessary for members of the last Legislature to be in the minority. Senator Montgomery was one of the most active members of the Senate against the Glenn Insurance Bill, against the passage of which the people of his district were almost unanimous. He used his best efforts for the enactment of the Anti-Press Bill.

Although Senator Montgomery pos-sessed very decided views upon public questions he was polite and consider-ate of the opinion of others which made him one of the most popular and in-finential representatives in Frankfort. stand at all times at Frankfort on be-half of the people's interest with his Kentucky, and we predict for him
